Effects About Money And Work

By R. T. ELLIOTT, K.C.

Many theorists are abroad in the land; one group telling us that the banking business is mysterious and sacred and must necessarily be given a monopoly of money and credit, and another group telling us that there is no such thing as a free lunch, and that by creating consumers' credit, distributable to every individual, and as to any deficiency which exists in the national clearing house at the end of any period, redeemable by a percentage loan on all profits earned in that period, everyone will have independence and prosperity.

Some day the nation may attain actual knowledge of facts which justify adoption of one of these theories; but the one of which we are definitely certain is that there is not enough money in circulation to carry on the business of the nation. The money which exists under the national and interest system is frozen up in Dominion, provincial and municipal banks.

The banks have a form of "superior credit" which will be extended to those whose fixed assets and earning power form an absolute guarantee of payment. Under existing conditions of international commerce this superior credit is only available to those who have some special privilege, either by legislative charter to a public utility or tariff protection privilege to selected industries. Superior Credit of this kind is not even a minor factor when it comes to battling with depression.

It is necessary then to drop first, all theories which have been tried and found destructive, and banking monopoly; and, secondly, all theories which invite experiment.

The safety of life and the protection of national institutions, and preservation of national fixed assets require a cure which will work. This cure is to put money in circulation. Franklin, writing more than a century ago, described how an increase in the circulation of money pulled the city of Philadelphia out of stagnation, restoring the volume of commerce and real estate values to normal, and that the cure was not a doubt increased circulation of money worked the remedy.

The first problem is to thaw out the money now frozen up in public debts. This can be done by the issuance of Dominion legal tender secured by a definite allotment of revenue. Dominion charges on collections equal the one and one-quarter per cent on each dollar of Dominion legal tender issued. To the extent to which Dominion legal tender is used to pay off provincial bonds the charge on provincial bonds might reasonably be two per cent, so as to form the one and one-quarter per cent sinking fund, and a three-quarters of one per cent charge to cover the cost of administration.

This system will abolish once and for all the vicious plan of borrowing money at interest for public objects; and year by year as the sinking funds retire currency, every governmental institution of the nation will gain in financial stability. There is no reason to argue or to argument against this because it is nothing but the truth.

The holders of the several billion dollars of legal tender brought back into active circulation in the national life will be able to use the legal tender in any form of Canadian investment, development or construction they select, and will have ready access to investment in the fixed assets of what will then be the soundest financed nation in the world. This again is nothing but the truth.

Further issues of Dominion legal tender can be made from time to time to provide for municipalities able to show that there is adequate unencumbered revenue upon which to base their sinking fund and administration charge.

Instead of stillowing the whole principal amount after paying two or three dollars in interest for each dollar of legal tender they will pay their debt out of their own pockets. This is nothing but the truth; and it is the most important truth in connection with national financing.

There would then be plenty of money available for commerce and industry; but not for speculation. Money would be available to commerce and industry when the two per cent sinking fund and administration charge could be adequately secured by a charge on fixed assets and earnings.

You ask why this plan has not been tried. It has. This plan worked most successfully recently in selling equipment to rail ways, on an installment sales plan, payable in installments, and at far higher rates of interest than are suggested in the legal tender secured by sinking fund plan. These equipment buyers always have been and still are ill-treated. That is one proof that in the foregoing paragraphs we have been dealing with facts and not with theories.

Your Children

By OLIVE ROBERTSON

How a child's interests can be secured by good character training is the subject of an article by OLIVE ROBERTSON in her Child Training Series.

By OLIVE ROBERTSON

Interest is pure nature. At last the basic truth of learning and development has been discovered, and character, recognition what they should be, and the years of childhood are now being developed by the system around it.

But children are not outside of school as in the great deal of what we now think and do. It is the child's own experience that is obtained from a desk. And it is the child's own experience that is obtained from a desk.

Now at last the child's own experience is obtained from a desk. And it is the child's own experience that is obtained from a desk.

Works Minister
Sponsors Measure
To Ease System

Contentious Residence
Clause Would Provide For Supreme Bench
Ruling—Many Other
Statutes Await Action.

Seeking to simplify the administration of relief on the perplexing borderline relief cases, a bill has been introduced into the legislature, sponsored by Hon. C. L. McPherson, minister of public works, to provide for the reference to a supreme court judge, the question of the residence of any recipient of relief when the liability to provide or pay for the relief depends on the residence of the recipient.

The bill also provides for the reference to the supreme court of the question of the liability of a person for whom some other municipality is liable.

The residence clause has been one of the most contentious in the whole relief administration and has been the cause of much litigation between Dominion, provincial and municipal administrations.

The Act provides that a reference can be taken to the court for determination any question that may arise within six months after the time at which any person first receives relief as to the residence at any time or times during any period or periods of time of that person, so far as the place of residence of that person at any time or times or during any period or periods of time is material to the determination of the liability of the government and any municipality either jointly or severally, for the payment of the costs of that relief.

Every order of a judge pursuant to the Act shall be binding and conclusive upon every party served with notice of the hearing.

Every making of an order by a judge as to any person entitled to or in receipt of relief, the municipality which is by reason of the residence of that person liable to provide such relief, shall be conclusive upon the person receiving relief to return and take up his residence in the municipality. If he does not comply with that requirement in 30 days after receiving notice, the right of that person to receive relief shall be suspended until such time as he does comply with the requirement.

In a bill to amend the Fuel Oil Act, provision is made for the refusal of new licenses to retail dealers of fuel oil in respect of premises in a locality where the existing facilities are adequate. Extension is provided for the discretionary power to cancel a license.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

A hand reaching out of the shadows of Leavenworth Penitentiary has gripped James Fahey of Jasper Park who is being extradited to the United States to pay for alleged crimes.

James Fahey, who was the wife of Leslie Nicholson, until recently a member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police force at St. John's, died three days after the birth of her first child. The baby is well.

Deceased is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Fraser of Fort Chipewyan, and granddaughter of the late Colin Fraser, well-known northern trader and pioneer of Edmonton.

The late Mrs. Nicholson was well-known in Edmonton where she was a frequent visitor. She was born and lived all her life at Chipewyan.

Do You Remember: 'WAY BACK WHEN' . . .

The Edmonton girls' hockey team drew citizens to the old rink, which was situated at the rear of what is now the Wentworth apartments on 97th street, just north of Jasper avenue. It was in 1939 that Edmonton's high-powered feminine aggregation, pictured above, played mainly in competition with a team from Strathcona and, as was the custom in those days, rivalry ran high.

Some acerbic battles were witnessed, according to old-timers, and at times tempers flared a little, adding a dash of paprika to the contests.

HOLD FUNERAL FOR POLICEMAN JAS. CAMPBELL

The police and fire departments paraded Saturday afternoon at the funeral from the Masonic Temple of Constable James Campbell, 11, oldest in service in the ranks of city police, who died suddenly in his home Wednesday morning last.

Two lines of 70 blue coated policemen headed by Police Chief A. G. Shute, Inspector R. Sutherland, Inspector Matt Blackwood and Sergeant Major Dan Fraser stood in attention as pallbearers Sergeant Mike Kelly, Sergeant W. F. Hynes, Sergeant George Bial, and Constables James Neill, Sam Kennedy and Tom Adams bore the casket through the portals of the Temple to the Foster and McCarvey funeral home.

In company of Fire Chief Albert Dalton, three platoons of firemen attended to pay final respects to Constable "Jimmy" Campbell, who during his service with the police department held the ranks of Sergeant and Inspector of Detective before joining the C.P.R. investigation organization and the Alberta Provincial Police.

Quitting these two organizations later Constable Campbell rejoined the city department and has been detailed to headquarters duty since that time.

The Rev. E. A. Black conducted the service in the Masonic Temple and performed the final rites at the grave-site in the Edmonton cemetery.

Under command of Sergeant Major Fraser every member of the police department, with the exception of a skeleton staff at headquarters and a few needed for traffic duty, lined up outside number one station at 2 p.m. Saturday in orderly ranks marched to the Masonic Temple from where the ceremony was held at 2:30 p.m.

Forming up before the service, the ranks marched west along Victoria avenue to 168 street, where cars placed at the service of the bereaved Campbell family of seven, a wife, three sons and three daughters, were used to carry the casket to the cemetery. Floral tributes blanketed the place on which the body rested.

Ernest Harrison, farmer living near Sanguine, contributed live piglets carried in a motorcade funeral from the exhaust of his car into the car, according to information received by C.P.R. divisional headquarters here. Harrison was found dead in his car on Wednesday. He was a married man. No inquest will be held.

Brig.-Gen. Ross Is Given Welcome

YORKTON, Sask., March 31.—Brig.-Gen. Alex. Ross, newly-elected president of the Canadian Legion, was officially welcomed to Yorkton today. The delegation which received him included Mayor Edwin Pinkerton, President W. F. Lehman of the Yorkton District Board of Trade, and E. H. MAX BAER TRAINING WELL IN PREPARATION FOR BOUT
GLOBE'S LAKE TAHOE, Calif., March 31. Max Baer, out on a busy day in training yesterday by rowing on a windproof lake and chopping wood.

The California heavyweight, who meets Primo Carnera in a world's championship boxing bout first June, started the day's activities with a six-mile hike.

"Max is feeling better every day," his manager, Al Hoffman, said. "He is working hard and the mountain air is doing him a lot of good."

Simon Pures Confirm New Negotiations at Meeting

TORONTO, March 31.—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association at its opening session here yesterday confirmed the negotiations for a play-off series between the United States Amateur Hockey Association and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association for the title of the C.A.H.A., which is held every two years annually.

The meeting was held at the Hotel Hamilton in Toronto, where the annual meeting of the C.A.H.A. is held.

According to the plan submitted, the country in which the series is played will take all the gate receipts and pay the expenses of the visiting team. The series will be played at Toronto this year and in the United States next year.

The series will be played in the form of a best-of-five series.

Yes, Mr. Winnipeggers were disappointed that E.A.C. could play the team only by the score of 7-3 that had taken into consideration the best teams in the Manitoba-Thunder Bay district.

Revamped Northwestern Squad Looks Much Better In Second Tilt Before Large Crowd
by JOHN OLIVER

Eddie Shore's National Hockey League Stars were forced to display their best form and go "all-out" to defeat the All-Star Northwestern League team at the arena on Friday night by a score of 1 to 3. With the Northwesterners staging a blistering rally in the third period, the game ended up with Tiny Thompson, astute mind minder of the National League, kicking punches out in all directions as the flaming red shirts fired a fusillade of shots at him.

Another capacity house—variously estimated rightly or wrongly at from 5,000 to 6,000—lured out to see the steel-shod gladiators give a sparkling demonstration of how hockey is played at its best.

It had not been long for the changing and very great rise in temperature within several hours of the game, it is likely the game would have gone down as near the greatest ever played at this time, and it was a thrilling, pulsating contest that kept excitement at a high peak from first to last.

Military Athletic Club Is Organized At Large Meeting
With an attendance of more than 40 members, the Military Athletic Club was organized at a large meeting held at the Hotel Hamilton in Toronto, Ontario, last night.

The club was organized by the members of the military and naval forces in the city.

The club will have a large membership and will be a great help to the military and naval forces in the city.

Northwestern Shows Better Form
The Northwesterners, reformed by the return of the late player of Don Brown, "Dynamite" Tiny Thompson, played a much better game in their second tilt with the National League Stars.

TORONTO, Ont., March 31—From Sydney to Victoria, more Canadians took to the national game this year than ever before. According to the report of Registrar W. A. Newell at the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's annual meeting yesterday, over 200 players were out in their red-and-white or blue-and-white, multi-coloured uniforms of organized clubs across the country.

This number, surpassing by almost 2,000 the previous high mark of 1972 established by the 1931-32 season, included 68 players in the Ontario Intercollegiate union, which includes McGill, Queens and Toronto Varsity.

The Quebec Hockey association was far and away ahead of any other district with 9,004 registered players in organized hockey. Quebec branch was next with 3,627, and followed by the Maritime Provinces, home of the Moncton Hawks, Allan cup holders, reg-

Our Old Country Letter ---

By J. EDWARD NORROSS

MANCHESTER, England, March 31. — (By Mail) — When Mr. Neville Chamberlain brought down his budget last year he decided to gamble on recovery. As the Manchester Guardian puts it, the Chancellor of the Exchequer "refused either to march with President Roosevelt in spending his way to prosperity or deliberately to imitate him in his budget to allow the income tax to do the spending for him."

There was no reduction of the income tax and the dire economic consequences of the severe slump were continued.

As a consequence the government is now reaping the full advantage of the notable improvement in commerce and industry during 1933. It is being estimated that the surplus of revenue over expenditure for the financial year that closes within the next few days will aggregate between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000, ample justification of the claim that Great Britain is in a better position financially than any other of the great nations.

But this is by no means all. On the present level of taxation and granting that the economic recovery continues, the surplus next year will be almost twice as much.

As might be expected the Chancellor is receiving no end of advice as to what use he shall make of all this money. Perhaps the most striking proposal is that of the Archbishop of York who urges increasing tax payers to write to the Chancellor and tell him that before he reduces income tax he should reduce the allowances in the income tax. The Archbishop, who is employed to the 18th level, thus urging on the promise made to these unfortunate people when they were called upon to contribute their part of the sacrifice demanded from all classes and to "tighten their belts."

The Archbishop's action has annoyed Mr. Chamberlain, who says that he does not need postcards from electors to tell him what he ought to do. All the same the Archbishop seems to have voiced a very prevalent feeling, and one to which in view of the warning given by the London County Council elections, the Chancellor will do well to heed.

Any way, according to the Guardian, there is money enough to restore unemployment benefits to the old scale, to restore a large part of the cuts in the salaries of government employees, police, teachers and others, and to give the income tax payers sixteen pence off in the pound. The latter now pays five shillings.

ACCORDING to Dr. John Orr it will take three generations of proper breeding to convert the British C2 population, which is far too large compared with the rest of the inhabitants of these islands, into a community of strong men and beautiful women, with a freedom from disease and a capacity for enjoyment not enjoyed by one in a thousand and of the present generation.

Dr. Orr, an M.D. is a Fellow of the Royal Society and is director of the famous Nutrition Research Laboratory at Aberdeen.

Some years ago the Laboratory sent out to Central Africa to study nutrition as exemplified by two neighboring tribes, the Kikuyu and the Masai. The diet of each was governed by seasonal factors. Thus the Kikuyu were restricted to "kari" beans and other vegetable products, while the Masai were great meat-eaters and milk drinkers and also included in their menu blood drawn from living cattle.

According to modern theories of vegetarianism the Kikuyu should have been immeasurably the fitter race physically. It was found as a result of the examination of 100 natives that they were nothing of the kind. The blood-drinkers were on an average five inches taller than the meat-eaters and fifty per cent stronger muscularly. Samples of the diets of the two tribes found their way north to

Mighty Lens Will Reveal Secrets of Universe

As construction of mightiest telescope ever made proceeds, science anticipates that it will reveal objects one billion light years distant as they were before even the lowest forms of life appeared on earth. It would be used to cast 200-foot telescope mirror (a 17 foot wide "eye" which will see four times larger than ever before) is shown (LEFT) at Corning, N.Y., where the glass, upon which two automobiles could stand side by side (right), is being cooled. Dotted and drawn lines of the photo at RIGHT indicate size of new telescope as compared with what is now world's biggest, one located at Mt. Wilson, Calif.

Aberdeen in due course where the diet of the meat-eaters was short of fat, mineral salts and vitamins, which may be presumed accounted for their greater susceptibility to bronchitis, pneumonia and tuberculosis. The blood-drinkers, on the other hand, suffered from digestive troubles and rheumatoid arthritis. Dr. Orr, "it has already brought into the limelight the food factors whose very existence was never suspected."

It has also been that a large percentage of the diseases from which we suffer are directly due to the lack of certain substances in the diet.

The evidence of disease like rickets, scurvy, bad teeth, stunted growth, intestinal disorders and anaemia can be greatly reduced and prevented by proper feeding.

"What a vista this opens up for the improvement of the race, especially in view of the fact that it is known that we suffer not only from our own dietary errors but from those of our parents."

The latter is a new discovery. There is a very old error in which it is written that the fathers have eaten the fallow and the children the dietetic sins as well as the others, shall be visited on the children even unto the third and fourth generations.

It is expected that with the advent of the Easter holidays an enormous number of people will take advantage of the tourist cruises planned by the steaming companies.

When the regular traffic falls off in the winter the big passenger liners are docked for their annual overhauling, repainting, and so forth. Fresh from the hands of the mechanics they are utilized in the spring for these holiday excursions before they take up their regular schedules again, some of them, in fact, even until the third and fourth of all summer.

The Canadian Pacific for instance, is sending the Montrose, Montclair and Melita, all usually employed on the Atlantic crossing, up the Mediterranean, no an hour and the people who play cards therein would be at the mercy of anybody whose choice it might be.

The vessels, for the time being, are really floating hotels, the object of the passenger being not to get to any particular place—there are even "mystery" cruises starting out for destinations unknown to the travellers—but to float over sunny waters off coast of dramatic beauty. And it can be done at the cost of five dollars a day being the basic rate better one spends ten days or among the Norwegian fjords or 31 days visiting southern ports with magical names like Malta, Algiers, Malta, Naples and Messina the latter.

Anyway, it looks as if this would be a most successful season on record. It is estimated that millions of people will be seen in the British public during the spring and summer.

In all 322 cruises have been planned abroad the big liners now being overhauled at Liverpool and Southampton, providing work for hundreds of men while they are in dry dock and for thousands more when they put out to sea.

THE police at Harrogate, the well known Yorkshire holiday resort, have unseated an act of parliament passed in the reign of Henry VIII forbidding the playing of cards on licensed premises that is on premises where intoxicating liquor is sold.

As a consequence a great big tournament in which 1,000 players were to take part has been cancelled. The police have notified the owner of the hotel at which it was to have been held that he is permitted anything of the sort he would endanger his license.

So there will be no booby games, no amusements of any kind in Harrogate parks on a Sunday. One may walk in them decorously in the afternoon sunshine and so get an appetite for "tea"—and to do justice to a real Lancashire "tea" on a Sunday.

As was pointed out, it is different if one has a car, which will be different when the King opens the new automobile tunnel under the Mersey next July. One may then drive over to the Cheshire side at Mersey, near Newton, Hoplake, and a dozen seaside resorts one may find all sorts of entertainment on a Sunday.

For spent on the tunnel which will be jammed every week end with motor cars—but the boats on the park lake will be kept under lock and key.

day. The boats are locked up on Sunday.

And they are to remain locked up, despite the fact that there is a Liverpool city council having decided by a vote of 48 to 42—the Liverpool city council is almost a purely parliamentary body.

The good old "thin end of the wedge," as might have been expected, played its part in the debate. Victims of the great plenary (held at Stanley Park, 1932), there is a St. Anthony's in Liverpool as well as in Vancouver being crowded on Sundays with parents engaged in cricket-matches or similarly riotous sports. Heated beyond the eyes of the police, who are on duty for, as one of them urged, if they consented to boating on the park lakes they would have to consent to other games on Sundays.

So there will be no booby games, no amusements of any kind in Liverpool parks on a Sunday. One may walk in them decorously in the afternoon sunshine and so get an appetite for "tea"—and to do justice to a real Lancashire "tea" on a Sunday.

Spanish Jobs Open Exchange, Number Selves

MADRID, March 31.—The unemployed have established a bar exchange here and already have more than 1,000 workers registered on their books and listed as numbers only on their official files.

In asking the minister of labor to help them find work, they explained they would be known by their numbers alone in order to avoid any political prejudices prospective employers might have.
